County Council open to proposal for campground at Krueger Lake

BY BOB DEMAREE

The possibility of developing a campground at Krueger Lake in the former Jefferson Proving Ground seemed to garner support from members of County Council at their meeting on Tuesday.

The campground proposal was one of four requests for funding proposed by Commissioner David Bramer totaling $81,500.

The four projects will be advertised ahead of next month's July 18 meet for consideration by the Council with three of the projects earmarked to come from the county's American Rescue Plan funds.

Bramer's proposal sought funding for a development study and to hire a landscape architect to draft a layout of how a campground might fit in at JPG. The work would be in preparation of having the project shovel ready should funding come through the second round of READI grant awards being sought by Our Southern Indiana Regional Development Authority.

"We would have somebody build the campground and then somebody to run the campground," said Bramer, noting he wasn't sure if the county wanted to get into the business of running a campground, but it's an opportunity "to bring more people into the county." Bramer said cost of the study would not exceed $33,600.

City unveils upgrades to Oak Hill Park

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

The sounds of kids playing and ice cream being made provided the soundtrack as Madison City Council took to the outdoors for its most recent meeting, held Tuesday in the Oak Hill subdivision on Madison's hilltop.

Madison Mayor Bob Courtney and the City Council set up in the subdivision to not only conduct city business, but to also dedicate the city's latest park investment, a revitalization and upgrade of an existing park that had fallen into disuse over the years.

"Parks are an important part of the community. They really project the idea of the 'power of play,' " said Tony Steinhardt III, the city's director of economic development. "Parks have been shown to help children with social interactions, problem-solving skills and anger management. We believe it is a vital part of the community."

ALEX HELTON

Helton has a better way to sell tickets

CHARLIE ROHLFING
CHARLIE'S BEAT

This marks my 10th year as a partner in Red Bicycle Hall, one of the premier live music venues in the region (and a much-loved spot for receptions and parties, too!) And I can tell you from experience, one of the most aggravating aspects of running a music hall is the ticketing process.

The large national ticketing vendors, like Eventbrite and others, are really just too big and unresponsive for a small venue like us. Try getting someone in San Francisco on the phone 20 minutes before a show to help with your frozen ticket sales system!

Enter Alex Helton, proprietress of Madison-based MadTix, and visionary for a new and better way to sell tickets and promote all kinds of events and shows. But first, some background. Many of you will recognize the name Helton.

"My family is multi-generation Madison people," explains Alex. "My dad owns Madison Iron Works down on West Main Street. And Heltons are thick on the ground across the river. I went to Southwestern before heading off to college, first at Butler then at University of Cincinnati.

"I taught middle school for almost 5 years up in Cincy, but the truth is, I was always homesick. I came home as often as I could, especially for the music festivals. Anyway, after teaching I made a beeline back home and eventually fell in with Sandy Dierdorf at the Madison Travel Company. I learned a lot from that experience about small businesses and what they need from a ticketing service.

"And I got to thinking, how do I take this to the next level? How do I build a ticketing service that supports local small businesses and promotes the entire Madison experience? That's when I decided to go out on my own and start MadTix.

"First and foremost, we are a super responsive locally-focused ticketing platform that is ideally positioned to serve every type of event or performance in Madison and the surrounding region. As we speak today I do ticketing for Red Bicycle Hall, Unbroken Circle Productions, MadHop Festival, House of Jane and RiverRoots.

I'd love to get Roostertail and Ribberfest, too!

"And beyond music events, I've also set up ticketing for Madison Main Street, Little Golden Fox, the Chamber of Commerce, the Madison Rodeo and many more.

"But here's the thing, I want this platform to be so much more than just a place to get tickets. The motto on our website is 'Your Hometown Ticket Hub.' I envision our website becoming a kind of central gathering spot for all things happening in and around Madison, whether you are a local or a tourist. Imagine how great it would be to have just one place where you could learn everything that's going on. That's my ultimate vision for MadTix.

"I'll admit, before I started this project I was not really an active consumer of the music scene. Sure, I'd come to the festivals, but not so much the every weekend music at Red Bike or the other venues. Attending a bunch of these shows I've discovered how much I'd been missing!

"I might show up at Red Bike to make sure the ticketing platform was running smoothly, with no intention of staying. But then the opening act would come on, and I'd be spellbound. I'd find myself still watching 3 hours later as the headliner did their encores.

"I guess that's my advice to any readers out there who may not leave the house to go see the live music in Madison. Do what I did. Give it a chance. There is some amazing stuff going on right now in our little Indiana town!"

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK

On Friday you can get a double dip of a country singer named MarDe Brooks, first at Lytle Park at lunch time, and then later at the Off Broadway Taproom. He's from Alabama, and he used to be the frontman for a rock band called Fifth Element. Worth checking out. Also worth checking on Friday will be the music at Sallie's Ice Cream Alley, starting at 7 p.m. The shows in that lovely outdoor venue are so intimate and personal, it's a great place to sit and listen and have a scoop of Sallie's finest. On Saturday Thomas Family Winery has a new act for us to savor. If the evening is anything like last weekend (when Jimmy and his band lit up the patio) you'll want to be there, trust me! I'll see you downtown!

"I'm definitely interested in the Krueger Lake campground," said Council member Chris Shelton. "I really think that could be a really good draw for the county" because other campgrounds in Jefferson County are all regularly filled up.

Commissioner Bobby Little noted that there had been a campground at Krueger Lake in the past. "When JPG was going full bore, the officers would come from all over the country and camp there," noting that infrastructure for the previous campground was eventually abandoned and if one is to be there again, "it will have to be redone."

In another request related to plans to develop a Madison-Hanover connector trail, Bramer said Hanover College wants to do a regional trails study and has asked the county to be involved. "The thing with trail funding is that you need to be tied into something regionally," Bramer said. The request for Jefferson County is $17,900 to participate in the regional study with Clark, Floyd, Harrison, Scott and Washington counties.

Another part of the economic development requests involves a $5,000 request as the county's contribution towards the Placi.ai data that is being used to track visitors to Jefferson County. Bramer noted the demographics that come from the data is beneficial for both economic development and tourism.

Bramer said the final of the four requests is provide financial assistance for restoration of the chapel at Springdale Cemetery in downtown Madison. He noted that $25,000 has been requested as part of the historic preservation fund. In January, the non-profit Springdale Cemetery Association received a $25,000 dilapidated structures PACE grant towards a restoration project that's estimated to cost a total of $65,000.

In other business, the council:

• Approved a request by the County Prosecutor's office to change the salary ordinance increasing the pay of legal assistants while providing funding for an additional legal assistant. Chief Deputy Mark Wynn said the request is not for more funding but in making an adjustment in the staffing in the Prosecutor's office. With an attorney departing earlier in the year, Wynn said that he and County Prosecutor David Sutter feel confident that the office can operate effectively with one less attorney, which now allows Jefferson County to provide more competitive pay for its legal assistants that he said are among the lowest paid in the area.

"We would not be here or would not have started the conversation if we were here asking for more money. That's not our goal or what we want to do. We're not going to come back next year and say we can do it without another attorney position. I have been there, and I know we can do it with who we have," said Wynn.

• Approved the return of an assistant administrator position in the Jefferson County Health Department, a position that formerly existed in the health department. The position was last held by Tammy Monroe, who left the position when she was hired as County Administrator in 2012. Because of Monroe's long-term experience with the health department, County Auditor Heather Huff noted Monroe was able to absorb those duties, saving taxpayer dollars for several years.

However, Lindsey Wyne, who replaced Monroe as the County Administrator last year, asked for a return of the position with the county opting in to the state's new Health First Indiana in which the county will receive additional funding in order to ensure access to core public health service. The position was approved this year with existing health department funds with consideration that next year that the position might be supported at least in part through Health First Indiana funds.

• Approved allocating $150,000 from the county's innkeepers tax collections for the Jefferson County Board of Tourism's county outreach fund to support county entities and further enhance tourism in Jefferson County. "This is a time when tourism is on the rise and it's time to strike when the iron's hot, and help organizations" that further the momentum, said Bramer.

• Jeffrey Peters, chief executive officer of Peters Franklin LTD, made a presentation to the Council about the strategic fiscal planning and budget consulting that it provides for municipalities.

• Devon Sharpe, the county's public defender administrator, appeared before the council to discuss changing requirements that will require that contracted position to be included on the county payroll.

Major Jerry Monroe Oak

Major Jerry Monroe Oak (Kentucky National Guard, Retired), age 79, of Bedford, Kentucky, passed away on Monday, June 19, 2023 at Indian Creek Healthcare Center in Corydon, Indiana. He was born June 2, 1944, the son of Elmer B and Pauline Marie (Stethen) Oak at home in Eagle Station in Carroll County, Kentucky.

He attended Locust School and Trimble County Schools. During the end of his senior year at Trimble County High School, his family moved to Henry County, Kentucky where he graduated in 1962. While in high school, he played basketball and was selected to the North Central Kentucky High School Conference. Jerry also played baseball, where one fellow player described him as "one of the best second basemen he had ever seen." He also played baseball with the American Legion Post 9 baseball team of Madison, Indiana, and ran Cross Country with the team, placing as Regional Champs in 1960. Jerry was active in FFA and 4H, attending the National 4H Club Congress in Chicago for his dairy project. He served as the FFA Regional Secretary.

Following graduation, he attended Southeastern Christian College in Winchester, Kentucky for two and a half years where he played basketball. During this time he joined the 138th FA BTR A National Guard unit in Carrollton. This unit was activated in 1965 and reported to Vietnam, serving his country there from 1968 to 1969. After returning from Vietnam, he received a direct commission to Fort Sill, Oklahoma officer school.

Jerry retired with the rank of Major in the Kentucky National Guard after twenty-one years of service. During his career, he served as Commander of the Btry A 2 Bn 138th FA in Carrollton, Asst S3 HHB XXIII Corp Arty in Louisville, Fire Direction Officer, S1, Motor Officer for HHB 2/138 FA in Lexington, and Liason Officer at HHB 138th FA Bde, Lexington. His last assignment was at the HHB 1st Bn 623rd FA in Glasgow, Kentucky where he served as the S-3 and Executive Officer. He was especially proud of the 623rd when they won the prestigious Walter T. Kerwin Readiness Award as the best National Guard Unit in the nation when he was the executive officer.

Jerry worked at the Charlestown Powder Plant in Indiana before enrolling at the University of Kentucky, majoring in Agriculture Education and Animal Science. While at UK, Jerry was a member of Block and Bridle, ATO fraternity, and the UK Livestock Judging team, winning several awards.

While enrolled at UK, he worked the front desk at the Campbell House Inn. During summers he had various jobs, including lifeguarding at General Butler Park, helping the survey crew determine the path of the I-71 corridor, measuring tobacco acreage to allocate quotas for farmers, and being part of the construction crew for the building of Markland Dam.

Jerry began his teaching career in 1974 as an agricultural teacher and FFA advisor in Shelby County, Kentucky. In 1984, Jerry accepted the position as agriculture teacher and FFA advisor at Trimble County High School and retired after 27 years of teaching.

On April 12, 1975, Jerry married Cecilia Sweeney at the Milton United Methodist Church. They recently celebrated 48 years of marriage. Jerry loved his family and his cows, John Wayne movies, Reba McEntire, UK Basketball, and enjoyed watching his grandchildren participate in sports.

Jerry was a hard worker, helping his father milk their Holstein cows before his teaching day began. He raised alfalfa hay, tobacco, corn, and strawberries. Jerry showed his Holsteins at shows across Kentucky and adjoining states, with "Dixie" winning Kentucky Grand Champion Aged Cow and Reserve Grand Champion at the Kentucky State Fair in 1985. Following the sale of his Holsteins, he began a commercial Angus cow/calf operation.

Jerry was a member of the Trimble County Cattlemen's Association. He served on the County Board of Directors and as a Regional Director with the Kentucky Cattlemen's Association. He served on the Trimble County Farm Bureau Federation Board of Directors and was the president for five years, from 2017-22. He was a member of the Sons of American Revolution, Clifty Chapter, past director on the Soil Conservation Board, and Bedford Baptist Church.

Jerry is survived by his wife, Cecilia Oak; his children: Stacy Oak Stockdale (Chris) of Owensboro, KY, Sarah Oak of Carrollton, and Benjamin Oak of Bowling Green, KY; his grandchildren: Clara, Cyrus and Celia Tuttle, and their father Chris Tuttle, all of Sanders, Kentucky, Matthew Biggin and Adalyn Oak, both of Carrollton; and step grandchildren Alex, Kaidhyn, and Lilhey Stockdale, all of Owensboro.

He was preceded in death by his parents; his sister, Joan Oak Schnabel; his brother, Dalton Oak; and his granddaughter, Caroline Tuttle.

The Reverend Mark Payton will conduct funeral services at 11 a.m. Tuesday, June 27, 2023 at Bedford Baptist Church, with interment to follow in Bedford Cemetery.

Friends may call from 5 to 8 p.m. on Monday, June 26, 2023 at Bedford Baptist Church, and from 9 a.m. until time of services on Tuesday.

The Honor Guard from Samuel Woodfill Post #9, American Legion, and the Ceremonial Unit from The United States Army at Fort Knox, Kentucky will provide military honors.

BPWS given update on water upgrades

BY BOB DEMAREE

Work has begun on the City of Madison's multi-million dollar water infrastructure improvements with the bulk of the work so far being done by Brackney Inc. on water main replacements within the distribution system throughout the city.

Brian Jackson, the city's utility manager, provided an update during Tuesday's meeting of the Board of Public Works and Safety. Jackson said installation of the water main replacements in the distribution system throughout the city has begun with work underway on Franks Drive, Hillcrest Drive and Sunrise Drive.

"It's been probably a major inconvenience for the residents in these neighborhoods where there is a lot of underground utility work because it's excavating in the roads then repairing the surface," said Mayor Bob Courtney, noting that other work on the drinking water infrastructure likely won't be as noticeable as work will take place in the water treatments facilities and water towers.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today's Highlights in History:

On June 23, 1888, abolitionist Frederick Douglass received one vote from the Kentucky delegation at the Republican convention in Chicago, effectively making him the first Black candidate to have his name placed in nomination for U.S. president. (The nomination went to Benjamin Harrison.)

On this date:

In 1860, a congressional resolution authorized creation of the United States Government Printing Office, which opened the following year.

In 1931, aviators Wiley Post and Harold Gatty took off from New York on a round-the-world flight that lasted eight days and 15 hours.

In 1947, the Senate joined the House in overriding President Harry S. Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley Act, designed to limit the power of organized labor.

In 1956, Gamal Abdel Nasser was elected president of Egypt.

In 1967, President Lyndon B. Johnson, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin (ah-LEK'-say koh-SEE'-gihn) opened a three-day summit at Glassboro State College in New Jersey.

In 1969, Warren E. Burger was sworn in as chief justice of the United States by the man he was succeeding, Earl Warren.

In 1972, President Richard Nixon signed Title IX barring discrimination on the basis of sex for "any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

In 1985, all 329 people aboard an Air India Boeing 747 were killed when the plane crashed into the Atlantic Ocean near Ireland because of a bomb authorities believe was planted by Sikh separatists.

In 1994, the movie "Forrest Gump," starring Tom Hanks as a simple yet kindhearted soul and his serendipitous brushes with greatness, was released by Paramount Pictures.

In 1995, Dr. Jonas Salk, the medical pioneer who developed the first vaccine to halt the crippling rampage of polio, died in La Jolla (HOY'-ah), California, at age 80.

In 2016, Britain voted to leave the European Union after a bitterly divisive referendum campaign, toppling Prime Minister David Cameron, who had led the campaign to keep Britain in the EU.

In 2020, the Louisville police department fired an officer involved in the fatal shooting of Breonna Taylor more than three months earlier, saying Brett Hankison had shown "extreme indifference to the value of human life" when he fired ten rounds into Taylor's apartment.

Ten years ago: Edward Snowden, the National Security Agency contractor behind the disclosures of the U.S. government's sweeping surveillance programs, left Hong Kong for Moscow with the stated intention of seeking asylum in Ecuador; however, Snowden ended up remaining in Moscow. Aerialist Nik Wallenda completed a tightrope walk that took him a quarter mile over the Little Colorado River Gorge in northeastern Arizona. Sci-fi and fantasy writer Richard Matheson, 87, died in Los Angeles.

Five years ago: Trump administration officials said the government knew the location of all children in its custody after separating them from their families at the border, and that it was working to reunite them. The Vatican tribunal convicted a former Holy See diplomat, Monsignor Carlo Capella, and sentenced him to five years in prison for possessing and distributing child pornography.

One year ago: Donald Trump hounded the Justice Department to pursue his false election fraud claims, contacting the agency's leader "virtually every day" and striving in vain to enlist top law enforcement officials in a desperate bid to stay in power, according to testimony to the House panel investigating the Jan. 6, 2021, Capitol riot. In a major expansion of gun rights, the Supreme Court says Americans have a right to carry firearms in public for self-defense. The European Union's leaders agreed to make Ukraine a candidate for EU membership, setting in motion a potentially yearslong process that could draw the embattled country further away from Russia's influence and bind it more closely to the West.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today's Highlight in History:

On June 24, 1497, the first recorded sighting of North America by a European took place as explorer John Cabot spotted land, probably in present-day Canada.

On this date:

In 1509, Henry VIII was crowned king of England; his wife, Catherine of Aragon, was crowned queen consort.

In 1807, a grand jury in Richmond, Virginia, indicted former Vice President Aaron Burr on charges of treason and high misdemeanor (he was later acquitted).

In 1939, the Southeast Asian country Siam changed its name to Thailand. (It went back to being Siam in 1945, then became Thailand once again in 1949.)

In 1940, France signed an armistice with Italy during World War II.

In 1946, Fred M. Vinson was sworn in as the 13th chief justice of the United States, succeeding the late Harlan F. Stone.

In 1948, Communist forces cut off all land and water routes between West Germany and West Berlin, prompting the western allies to organize the Berlin Airlift.

In 1957, the U.S. Supreme Court, in Roth v. United States, ruled 6-3 that obscene materials were not protected by the First Amendment.

In 1973, President Richard Nixon concluded his summit with the visiting leader of the Soviet Union, Leonid Brezhnev, who hailed the talks in an address on American television.

In 1983, the space shuttle Challenger — carrying America's first woman in space, Sally K. Ride — coasted to a safe landing at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

In 1992, the Supreme Court, in a 5-4 decision, strengthened its 30-year ban on officially sponsored worship in public schools, prohibiting prayer as a part of graduation ceremonies.

In 2015, a federal judge in Boston formally sentenced Boston Marathon bomber Dzhokhar Tsarnaev to death for the 2013 terror attacks. (A federal appeals court later threw out the sentence; the Supreme Court reinstated it.)

In 2020, three white men were indicted on murder charges in the killing of Ahmaud Arbery, a Black man who was shot while running in a neighborhood near Georgia's coast. (All three were convicted.)

Ten years ago: Opening statements took place in the Sanford, Florida, trial of George Zimmerman, accused of murdering 17-year-old Trayvon Martin. (Zimmerman was acquitted.) The Chicago Blackhawks won the Stanley Cup with a stunning 3-2 comeback victory in Game 6 over the Boston Bruins. In one of Wimbledon's greatest upsets, an ailing Rafael Nadal was knocked out in straight sets by 135th-ranked Steve Darcis of Belgium, 7-6 (4), 7-6 (8), 6-4.

Five years ago: President Donald Trump compared people entering the U.S. from Mexico to invaders and said they should be immediately sent back without appearing before a judge. Women in Saudi Arabia were able to drive for the first time, as the world's last remaining ban on female drivers was lifted.

One year ago: The Supreme Court ended constitutional protections for abortion that had been in place nearly 50 years — a decision by its conservative majority to overturn the court's landmark abortion cases. The outcome overturning Roe v. Wade was expected to lead to abortion bans in roughly half the states. Star slugger Aaron Judge and the New York Yankees agreed to a $19 million, one-year contract, avoiding an arbitration hearing.

Council seeks to honor Morgan with Safety Center naming

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County Council voted unanimously at its meeting on Tuesday to honor Troy Morgan by recommending that Jefferson County Commissioners name the Jefferson County Public Safety Center in memory of Morgan.

Morgan was director of the Jefferson County Emergency Management Agency from Sept. 1, 2017 until his unexpected death on June 6. He was instrumental in developing the Public Safety Center as not only a permanent location for the county's Emergency Management Agency but also as a more effective space for the county's 911 operations, a central command post for disasters and emergencies and training center.

It was Morgan who suggested the possibility of the former Work One building, 620 Green Road, becoming the Jefferson County Public Safety Center. He was the extensively involved in making the building into what public officials now describe as a "state-of-the-art" facility.

Later in the meeting, Matt True, the EMA's chief of operations, expressed appreciation to the Council for its recommendation in naming the public safety center as the "Troy Morgan Memorial."

"Thank you for making this recommendation because this (building) is Troy Morgan's heart and soul," said True. "It's pretty awesome to see that this turned out the way it did. This is a vision he had ever since he got outside the area and saw bigger places and what they were doing.

True said Morgan created not only the facilities but the support network to respond to whatever crisis should arise and that organization planning continues to pay dividends after his death. "Troy sent us on a mission. We don't have a destination but we're going to motor on through it and keep on truckin' like he would like us to do," True said.

County Council member Dwayne May, who has been appointed to the EMA board, said Morgan's death was "a gut punch because I was really looking forward to working with him. He was serious about what he was doing, and about service of what he was doing for the county."

True said Morgan has "been a boss to me, a mentor, a good friend, and like a big brother. He's been a big cheerleader, and he's filled that role for loads of people."

PARK

unique in that it was one of the few subdivisions in the city that was designed with a park in place from the start. But over the years, the park became more and more outdated and had become an afterthought.

"I was one of the first people to live in this subdivision and we used this park all of the time," said resident Jacklyn Means, who was on hand for the ribbon-cutting. "We had a big ball field in here and it was the place to go. But nobody used it anymore."

Steinhardt and Courtney zeroed in on the Oak Hill park as part of their "Madison on the Move" initiative and with the help of private donations, were able to update the park with a new playground, shelter house, basketball court, dog park and cornhole area. Before the meeting had concluded, kids were already on the playground and dogs were running around the park.

"We are working hard to bring improvements to this community," Courtney said. "But these kinds of projects don't happen overnight. There are so many people that helped make this happen."

David Campbell

Children were already enjoying the new playground equipment at Oak Hill Park afdter the City of Madison just minutes earlier held a ribbon-cutting for the upgraded and revitalized facility in the Oak Hill Subdivision on Madison's hilltop.

The Community Foundation of Jefferson County contributed $50,000 to the project, but according to Foundation Director Bill Barnes, 60% of the project's funds came from donations from the community.

Before the ribbon cutting, the council convened a short meeting to approve three resolutions and two amendments to existing ordinances.

One of the resolutions, 5C-2023, approved a one-year, $50,000 loan at 0% interest to help offset costs from the Culver's Restaurant project on Franks Drive. The money was to come from the city's share of Local Income Tax revenues. According to Steinhardt, the economic benefits of the project will far outweigh the costs of the loan.

"This is the first time that we have used LIT dollars for a project like this," Steinhardt said. "Culver's will employ 60 people with a $900,000 annual payout in payroll. This is a $2.6 million project and this loan is to help offset costs from the beginning of the project in relation to supply chain issues."

The other two resolutions involved allocation of TIF zones throughout the city as presented to the council in previous discussions. In both cases, current assessments have necessitated that certain zones be reclassified in order to increase the land's value, such as the new shopping center going in at Sunrise Crossing on Michigan Road.

Two other amendments were also adopted by the Council, one to fix a typo in an existing ordinance.

Because of the July Fourth holiday, the next meeting of City Council will be at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 5, in the council chambers.

WATER

Dave O'Mara Contractor Inc. is doing the supply and treatment improvements at the city's existing water treatment facilities and booster pump stations. Jackson said that work is just beginning. "They are moving equipment on site and are starting to mobilize for the west end booster station" that is anticipated to begin in July.

The rehabilitation of the city's six water storage tanks is being done by MW Construction. Jackson said welding and surface preparation has began on the south elevated tank. He said there were issues in the roof repair and they still waiting for estimates on that — an unexpected expense that he anticipates will be covered by contingency money — which could be costly.

In addition to the work on the water infrastructure improvements, Courtney said there is much construction work underway throughout Madison — site preparation for the new Culver's restaurant at Franks Drive, construction on Shoppes at Sunrise Crossing and soon there will be installation of a new stoplight at Crestwood Drive.

"We appreciate everyone's patience with all the construction that's happening across the community," said Courtney. "In a matter of few months, you're going to see a big difference in lots of areas of our town."

Payments were approved for work that has been done — $221,876 to Brackney Inc., $105,640 to MW Cole Construction, $32,289 to Dave O'Mara Contracting and $43,822 to Commonwealth Engineers.

In other business, the BPWS:

- Approved PACE extensions to 103 East Main St., owned by Friends of the Ohio Theatre, until Sept. 1 and 702 West Main St., owned by Jim Pruett until Aug. 16. However, a request for a one-year extension for 821 Walnut St., owned by Dana Lemon, was only approved for six months. Courtney preferred to have an update on the progress if the work cannot be completed in a year, and having a shorter extension will require that. Also, he cited a distinction between the two Main Street extensions that were approved as requested and 821 Walnut St. in which the extension was decreased.

"First, the requests were shorter" for the two on Main Street. Also, he said, "Exterior improvement on those other two properties are pretty far along as compared to the one on Walnut Street, and that's what I'm looking from the PACE program; it's to enhance the environment as well as stabilize the property." He said he would like to see exterior work "sooner than later."

- Approved PACE final awards of $7,500 each to 513 West St., 515 West St. and 517 West St. — all owned by Riverside Group LLC, and a PACE final award of $18,212.50 for dilapidatd structures for 107 East Fifth St., owned by Dave Patterson.
- Approved a resolution to establish a delivery only parking space east of Madison Ironworks 1108 West Main St. on weekdays (Monday through Friday) from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Madison Police Chief John Wallace said the delivery only parking space is "much needed" because truck deliveries to the business must load and unload there.
- Approved street closings associated with the Madison Riverfront Development Corporation's Golf Cart/ATV Poker Run scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 7.

Trimble hires new superintendent from Bath County

BY SARA FINLEY
PAXTON MEDIA GROUP

After interviewing multiple candidates during a search that lasted several months, Trimble County Board of Education has named its new superintendent for Trimble County schools.

On June 14, the board confirmed that R. Todd Neace will succeed Jessica Wilcoxson, who retired after 27 years in various positions at Trimble County and most receintly superintendent.

Todd Neace

Like Wilcoxson, Neace is a career educator with 25 years of experience including 16 years in administration in Bath and Nicholas counties. He most recently served as Bath County's director of continuous instruction improvement dating back to June 2021.

A graduate of Morehead State University with a bachelor's in social studies (1996) and a master's in educational leadership and administration (2007), Neace began his career as a social studies teacher in Nicholas County, spending four years in the classroom before taking over as principal of Bath County's alternative school.

He has also served two years as a middle school athletic director, four years as middle school assistant principal and five years as principal at the middle school, all at Bath County, before moving into instructional improvement.

Neace's social media accounts note that he is a digital creator with a podcast called Neace's Notes. He also made an unsuccessful run as a Democratic for the Kentucky House of Representatives District 72 in 2020, losing to Republican Matthew Koch.

Originally from Hazard, Kentucky, Neace, 49, plans to relocate to Trimble County and is "looking forward to meeting the community, parents, staff and students," according to a post by the Trimble School Board.

Hanover council gets report on parks projects

BY BOB DEMAREE

Work to refurbish the tennis courts at Hanover Community Park is underway as progress continues on park improvements funded by a $574,412 Land and Water Conservation Fund grant.

Council member Kenny Garrett provided an update at Tuesday's Hanover Town Council in which he said work began on the tennis courts Monday. Garrett said the project is expected to take approximately five weeks to complete but will depend on weather to stay on schedule.

A decision on lighting for the park is likely to come at the council next meeting. Garrett said he received a price of $49,000 from Brian Blackburn Electric for 20 light pole bases, setting the anchor bolts and light poles and installing the conduit. There was also a cost of $23,782 for installation and trenching all the lights. However, Garrett said the trenching is work the town might be able to do. Garrett said he would meet with Brian Blackburn Electric Thursday to work out a plan and costs for the lighting.

The grant provides for a 50% match by the town, meaning the town will contribute $287,206 to match the same amount by the National Park Service.

With cost increases, there have been parts of the original plans for the park improvements that have been delayed. Garrett said he is hopeful after a recent meeting with representatives of the Bethany Legacy Foundation that the work can still be funded.

"They are super, super, super nice, and I came out feeling good," said Garrett. "If we are lucky enough to get funding from them then we'll start on a third project," specifically one of the baseball buildings.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

• Following recent Hanover Plan Commission meetings in which residents voiced concerns about dangers in the vicinity of Kuntz Road and State Road 56, council members said discussions have been held with the Indiana Department of Transportation about making changes to improve the safety.

Town council president Debbie Kroger said INDOT has lowered the speed limit to 45 mph on State Road 56 beginning at the intersection with State Road 62 at the golf driving range and staying at that speed limit to the Urgent Care just before Kuntz Road. The speed limit on that stretch of highway previously was 55 mph. Kroger said she has noticed that the lower speed limit has slowed traffic there.

Council member Ben Sommer said the council has been actively communicating with the state about the possibility of making the State Road 56 and Kuntz Road intersection more safe by including a stop light and turning lanes. "Whatever can be done to make it safer," he said, noting there are McDonald's and Subway restaurants, an Urgent Care and a Shell gas station along that busy highway.

• With work continuing on a sewer project for the town and Hanover College, there's been considerable damage to Hanover Beach Hill Road.

"The road is in bad condition where they've been doing a lot of work where they've been bringing in heavy equipment, making it worse," said Garrett. "They wanted to go ahead and fix the road, and improve right now." However, after discussion, Garrett suggested the road should be fixed so it's usable now and then see what funding is available for permanent repairs after the project. "Come back and see what kind of funding we have left to improve the road because if we go ahead and improve the road it's going to take a lot the reserve money that we have for the rest of the project, and we may not have enough money to finish the project. So, our thought was let's finish the project, let's come back, and afterwards when the project is done, then we can address the road issues."

• Andy Richmer, of the Hanover Horsepower Auto Show, discussed plans for the second annual event scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Aug. 4-5 at the Community Park. In addition to the car show on Saturday, Aug. 5, beginning noon, there will be live music both days with Whitney Campbell and the Crashers on Friday and Roman Toast and Kid Kentucky on Aug. 5.

SW School Board reallocates $600,000 in loan surplus

BY BOB DEMAREE

With more than $600,000 remaining from Southwestern Jefferson County school corporation's $2.5 million Construction Loan, the State Board of Education has approved a request to reallocate those funds.

Corporation treasurer Laura Boldery made the announcement at Tuesday's meeting of the board. The loan, at a 1% interest rate, was approved in May of last year.

The bulk of the loan went for renovations to Delbert O. King Gymnasium. That involved completely replacing the existing gym flooring, completely replacing the existing lower and upper bleachers, and purchase and installation of a new elevator in the gymnasium to meet accessibility requirement. The remainder went to updating the school corporation's video surveillance cameras.

The original cost of the gymnasium renovation had been estimated at $2 million with the video surveillance improvements at $500,000. But with those projects now completed, there remains $610,509.49 in that loan.

New items approved by the state board were approved also by the Southwestern board. They are a 75-foot- by 100-foot high school gym floor covering at $21,487.50, high school gym mobile stage at $16,828.36, rider floor scrubber at $16,348.63 and high school elevator repairs at $197,450. The high school elevator to be repaired is one next to the cafeteria that's been used in the past as a freight elevator but is now being converted into one that will be handicap accessible for students and faculty.

There were two other items approved by the state board that were not considered by the school board. Middle school roof repairs with a quoted price of $104,795 that will now be taken from the ESSER (Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief Funds) monies. Also, the state board approved $253,600 for construction of a bus parking lot but that is being delayed pending more consideration.

In other business, the board carefully considered whether to adopt increased school lunch prices, and after much discussion settled on a 10 cent increase for elementary and middle school/high school lunches. The amount was half of the 20 cent increase proposed for consideration. Board members were especially concerned about the hardship that it would put on families in the school district, especially those with multiple children.

Effective Aug. 9, elementary lunch prices will increase from $1.80 to $1.90 and middle/high school student lunch prices will in rease from $2.05 to $2.15.

"I am just asking you to consider raising the prices," said Katie King, Southwestern's director of child nutrition, in seeking the 20 cent increase. "Everyone knows that the price of life has gone up over the last couple of years."

King noted the revenue for the cafeteria has been declining. A discussion between board members and corporation treasurer Laura Boldery determined that the last increase was 10 cents and about five years ago.

Boldery said the cafeteria just "barely gets by each month" in collecting enough to meet expenses. "We're not allowed to have that in the red and if the cafeteria goes in the red, it has to come out of our operations fund or rainy day fund, or somewhere. We have to come up with the money to support the cafeteria if it goes in the red."

Boldery said the school corporation does receive donations to support the cafeteria for students who cannot afford to pay for lunches. One of the issues is that even though the government provides a free and reduced lunch program that provides reimbursement to the school corporation for those with need, there are students who likely eligible but their parents have not completed and submitted the necessary forms, Boldery said.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

• Preschool director Christin Harsin reported that nearly $4,000 was raised from a car show fundraiser, increasing the amount raised for a new preschool playground to $14,000 towards a $60,000 goal. "We had great attendance with 43 cars," she said. "It was amazing the turnout. Everybody pulling together, it was a real fantastic day."

• Recognized the Southwestern archery team that participated in the world championship this past school year. The team is comprised of fourth and fifth graders with Collin Godfrey currently ranking number one in Indiana elementary archery.

• Finalized approval of up to $30,000 from the Rainy Day fund for net posts, nets and fencing around the tennis courts at Hanover Community Park. Southwestern's tennis teams use the park's courts and the Hanover town council had last year asked for the school corporation to contribute that amount, and the board had committed the funding.

• Approved $37,800 from the Rainy Day fund for repair of the lift station at the elementary school. Boldery reported that Roger Bickers, the school corporation's maintenance director, stated the lift station badly needs repairs and "will not last much longer" if something is not done. The contract was awarded to Sullivan and Poore Mechanical Contractors.

• Approved a transportation contract with Teri Kloepfer for Route 11 for the 2023-2024 and 2024-2025 school years at $4.84 per mile for 52 miles at 181 days which totals $45,554.08 annually. The rate per mile is the same that was approved for other bus contracts earlier in the year.

• Accepted the resignation of Kristin Bye as middle school principal. Bye has accepted a job as assistant principal at Silver Creek Elementary School. Resignations were also accepted for high school teachers Karla Thornton and Cheryl Watterson, elementary teachers Kassi Seaver and Alysha Clark, and preschool teacher Tyla Thomas. Hired Kim Hicks as ESL coordinator, Jonathan Stockdale as high school agriculture teacher, Amy Bailey, Bailee Binzer, Abigail Garrett and Annabella Thacker as elementary teachers, and Brittany Brawner as preschool teacher. Also, a transfer was approved for Phil Whelan from middle school mathematics to high school mathematics.

Stacy Hardesty-Gray lives in Jefferson County but is an art teacher in the Jac-Cen-Del school corporation. She's pictured on the ladder painting a purple grand champion ribbon on the mural that will cover one side of the Community Building at the Jefferson County 4-H Fairgrounds. Standing by and reviewing her work is Addy Reece, 11, a member of the Deputy Friends and Family 4-H Club.

Mural on Community Building bringing to life 4-H, Fair

BY BOB DEMAREE

For what was once a blank wall is on the east wall of the Community Building at the Jefferson County 4-H Fairgrounds is becoming a 52-foot mural celebrating everything about the fair and 4-H.

The mural was the idea of Stacy Hardesty-Gray, of Canaan, who proposed the idea to the Jefferson County 4-H Fair Board, which then sought and received a $5,300 grant from the Community Foundation of Madison and Jefferson County to support the month-long project that will be completed in time for the 2023 Jefferson County 4-H Fair July 7-14.

MULBERRY CELEBRATION FRIDAY

A celebration at the Mulberry Street Mural Plaza will be held on Friday with a dedication ceremony at 5:30 p.m. The event, organized by the Madison Area Art Alliance, will feature music starting at 5:15 p.m. The event is a celebration of the completion of the renovation of the parking lot in the northeast corner of Second and Mulberry Street that enhances the Mulberry Murals.

Hardesty-Gray, who has taught art for 26 years in the Jac-Cen-Del school corporation, created the outlines of the features on the mural with 4-H youths participating by painting in the colors. "I wanted the kids to help and take ownership of it," she said. So far about 10 youths from 4-H clubs have helped with the mural.

The mural will encompass elements of the fair that includes images of livestock, tractors — one a John Deere and another an International — 4-H projects that show dogs, cats, a camera and sewing along with an ear of corn and pumpkins. It will also show carnival rides, a ticket to the carnival rides and much more.

Hardesty-Gray said she has been a longtime proponent of public art, creating several displays within the Jac-Cen-Del school corporation. She loves the murals in downtown Madison, particularly the Mulberry Murals, noting "That's the best I've ever seen."

But the mural on the Community Building at the fairgrounds is special to Hardesty-Gray. Before moving to Jefferson County, she lived in Vincennes and was involved in the Knox County 4-H Fair in her youth. Living in Jefferson County, she had a daughter who participated in 4-H.

"4-H is one of the best programs that kids can be in," said Hardesty-Gray. "It has something for everyone. Plus it teaches responsibility to something else." For example, for those in livestock, she said the 4-Hers have the responsibility of taking care of the animal while having that livestock judged teaches showmanship and how they should present themselves. "For what it teaches them, 4-H is a great program for kids that influences them" in the positive impact they'll make with their lives in adulthood.

5 Key Questions About Retirement

"Layin' it on the line"

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

Retirement. Ah, that golden period of life we all look forward to. You've worked hard over the years and it's finally time to enjoy the fruits of your labor. But before you sail off into the sunset, it's essential to have a solid plan in place. There are some crucial questions to answer, so let's dig in.

1. When do I want to retire? The "when" is more significant than you might think. Retiring too early might mean you'll need to stretch your savings for a longer period. Wait too long, and you might not have as many healthy years to enjoy it. The age at which you retire can also affect your Social Security benefits. It's a complex puzzle, and it's worth spending time to piece it together.
2. How much money will I need in retirement? This is a biggie. You need to estimate your living costs in retirement. Will you travel? Do you plan to spoil the grandkids? Maybe you want to pick up some new hobbies? All of this will cost money. And don't forget about healthcare - a significant expense for many retirees. You'll also need to consider inflation; it can significantly erode your purchasing power over time.
3. Where will my income come from? Your days of drawing a regular paycheck are ending, so where will your money come from? Consider all sources of income: Social Security, pensions, retirement savings like 401(k)s and IRAs, annuities, and any other investments. Maybe you plan to work part-time? It all adds up. Just remember, some sources of income may be taxable, so make sure to account for that.
4. How will I spend my time? This might seem trivial compared to the financial questions, but it's equally crucial. Staying mentally and physically active in retirement is essential for your health. Do you plan to travel, volunteer, go back to school, start a business, or spend more time with family? Maybe it's a mix. Either way, it's your time now. Make sure to spend it in ways that bring you joy and fulfillment.
5. What kind of legacy do I want to leave? Not everyone likes to talk about this, but it's an essential part of retirement planning. Do you wish to leave something for your loved ones or a cause close to your heart? This could affect how you save and invest during retirement. Estate planning, including creating or updating your will and setting up any necessary trusts, is key here. It can ensure your wishes are followed and could help your heirs avoid unnecessary taxes and legal complications.

So, there you have it. Five vital questions to help you navigate your retirement journey. Remember, there's no one-size-fits-all answer to any of these, and your answers might change over time. That's okay. The important thing is to start thinking about these questions and making a plan. And don't hesitate to reach out to professionals like financial advisors or estate attorneys. They can provide valuable guidance tailored to your specific situation. Here's to a happy and fulfilling retirement!

Bonus Tip: The most important thing about retirement is having a comprehensive plan that includes a foundation of safe money which covers financial stability, healthcare needs, and personal fulfillment. This ensures that you have the resources to support your lifestyle and take care of any unexpected challenges, while also making the most of this new stage of life. Planning for retirement is an ongoing process and should be regularly reviewed and adjusted as needed.

MADISON COURIER GIRLS TRACK & FIELD ATHLETE OF THE YEAR

Kunkel caps career with 2 state championships

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Even though Kinley Kunkel came into the KHSAA Track & Field State Finals with the top time in the 3200-meter run, she wasn't leaving anything to chance. Not one who is known for her quick starts, Kunkel shot to the lead at the start of the race and never looked back.

"I knew I had to get out hard in order to get away because my main competition at that race likes to follow and then have a strong close," Kunkel said. "So I kind of just got out hard and tried to get as far away from her as I could. So then I had some room."

Beechwood freshman Nora Wilke did her best to keep up with Kunkel's blistering pace but she had no chance as Kunkel pulled away and easily won the state championship with a time of 11:42.01, a full 20 seconds ahead of the rest of the field.

That state championship allowed the Trimble County star to bookend her senior season with state championships and earn this year's honor as Madison Courier Girls Track & Field Athlete of the Year.

Kunkel has known nothing but success in both track and cross country during her high school career, but nothing compared to her senior year.

Nina Campbell

Trimble County senior Kinley Kunkel is the Madison Courier Girls Track & Field Athlete of the Year.

After winning the cross country regional and placing sixth in the state finals, she opened the track & field season by winning the KHSAA Class A Indoor State Championship in the 3000 meters in 10:53.97, beating out Lexington Christian's Annalise Randles by half a second.

That victory was a precursor of what was to come and gave both Kunkel and her coach, Jared Sanford, a goal to shoot for.

New-look Miss Madison team set to begin

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

This weekend in Guntersville, Alabama, will not only be the beginning of the 2023 H1 Unlimited season, but it will also mark the debuts of Miss Madison Racing's two newest drivers as the historic team begins a new era.

Veteran Andrew Tate and rookie Dylan Runne will both see their first live action for the team, which will be chasing its fourth-straight National High Points Championship and 12th in the past 15 years.

Tate, a former national champion from Canton, Michigan, takes over the wheel of the U-91 Goodman Real Estate from the departed Jeff Bernard. He last drove an Unlimited in 2021 and comes into the team and season with nine wins, third-most among active drivers.

Tate's ride has undergone a massive rebuild in the offseason and the driver got his first chance to shake it down during the H1 Spring Training test session in the Tri-Cities, Washington, earlier this month.

Tate was fourth-fastest during the test session, posting a top speed of 160.568 mph, but he knows that his former series championship boat has plenty left in the tank.

"It's a great boat and the crew has done a good job with it," said Tate, who was tight-lipped about the changes made over the offseason. "There are some things that I can do better and there are some changes we'll need to make, but it's a fast boat."

David Campbell

Jimmy Shane, in the U-1 Miss HomeStreet/Miss Madison (far riight) and Jeff Bernard, in the U-91 Goodman Real Estate/Miss Madison (middle), lead the field at the start of the Final Heat of the APBA Gold Cup at Lake Guntersville in Alabama last year. Both Madison boats will have new drivers this season.

Tate's teammate will be making his first-ever appearance in an Unlimited race, but he's already claimed a victory on the Lake Guntersville course. Runne won the Pro-Lite Series event in Alabama last year but will be driving a much bigger and faster boat this weekend.

Runne, from Rumsen, New Jersey, takes over the wheel of the U-1 Miss HomeStreet from the retired Jimmy Shane and, like Tate, Runne got a chance to test out his new ride during the Tri-Cities test. He posted the top speed of 163.155 mph driving the defending national champion boat, impressing everybody on the shore.

"This whole HomeStreet Madison team put in so much work to make this the absolute best race boat in the world," Runne said. "They can make it look easy for you. You just get in and push both pedals down and get going."

Runne had previously tested the Goodman craft at San Diego last year and between those laps and the ones at Tri-Cities has reached his H1 series qualification requirements. As a rookie, he will still be forced to start the first two heats at Guntersville from the outside and behind the field for safety reasons.

While all eyes will be on the two new Madison drivers, it is actually the Strong Racing duo of J. Michael Kelly and Corey Peabody who have owned the Guntersville course the past several years.

Kelly, who has 16 wins on the Unlimited level, claimed victory in 2021, the very first race for team owners Darrell and Vanessa Strong. Peabody, meanwhile, steered his U-9 Lynx Healthcare to victory on the lake last year to claim the APBA Gold Cup.

Both drivers are back this year and will be driving essentially new boats. Kelly's U-8 Beacon Electric, which was built in 2016, under performed last year and went through some offseason work while Peabody's U-9 Beacon Plumbing broke in half after a spectacular blowover at Madison last year and was completely rebuilt.

Post 9 baseball reaches finals of Hayes Invite

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison Post 9 baseball won all three of its pool play games before falling in the finals of the John Hayes Invitational in Terre Haute over the weekend.

The Niners picked up wins over Terre Haute Post 34, Danville Post 118 and Lake County Post 100 to win their pool. They then defeated Ellsberry (Missouri) Post 226 and Lafayette Post 11 in the single-elimination tournament to reach the finals where they dropped a close 2-1 decision to Washington County (Missouri) Post 218 on Sunday. Madison is now 7-1 on the season.

Madison pulled out a 4-3 win over Terre Haute in the opener. Ben Orrill started on the mound and went the first four and two-thirds innings but it was Ashton Carie who got the win in relief. Abe Reetz and Jordan DeAtley each singled and scored and Zander Vonch hit an RBI double for the Niners.

DeAtley allowed one run and one hit over six innings to pick up the win as Madison defeated Danville 14-1 in the second game. Mitchell Cammack and Vonch each had two hits with Cammack and Reetz each claiming big defensive plays.

Madison posted a 4-0 shutout win over Lake County in the final pool play game. Shawe's Wyatt Nichter got the win with Carie picking up the save. Cammack had two more hits and two RBIs while DeAtley, Reetz and Jacob Hertz all adding hits.

With three wins in pool play and having allowed just three runs, Madison was the No. 1 seed when the single-elimination tourney began Saturday night.

The Niners defeated Ellsberry 2-1 in the first game. Bodie Harsin doubled in a run and Damon Hardin had an RBI single for Madison's scores. Carie worked the final seven and a third innings for the win.

Madison entered the bottom of the sixth inning trailing 7-3 to Lafayette in the semifinals in a game that was close to ending due to a time limit. However, the Niners rallied to score five runs and win the game.

Vonch doubled in a run, Reetz hit an RBI single, Nichter drove in a run, Holden Gluba had an RBI and Hardin scored on a wild pitch to complete the comeback while Harsin picked up the win on the mound.

Madison's run of wins came to an end with the 2-1 loss to undefeated Washington County in the finals. Harsin allowed two runs over five innings for the loss and Reetz singled in Vonch for the Niners' lone score.

Fraley's homer sends Reds to 11th straight win, longest streak in 66 years

CINCINNATI — Jake Fraley hit a tie-breaking, two-run homer in the eighth inning and the Cincinnati Reds extended their majors-best winning streak to 11 games — the club's longest in 66 years — by rallying past the Colorado Rockies 5-3 on Wednesday for a three-game sweep.

Cincinnati, which trailed 3-0 after four innings, has its longest winning streak since taking 12 straight in 1957. The NL Central-leading Reds (40-35) have swept three straight three-game series and won five consecutive series overall.

"It is very inspiring to be around," manager David Bell said. "It is happening in the clubhouse. It's happening on the field, and what's happening in the ballpark, our fans, it's seeing them enjoy the game. It means a lot to us."

Rookie sensation Elly De La Cruz hit a one-out bloop to left that fell for a double against Daniel Bard (3-1), and Fraley hit the next pitch over the wall in right. It was the Reds' majors-best 12th comeback win of the season and sent the Rockies to their season-worst eighth straight loss.

"It is fun when it's your turn, but I'd argue that it is just as fun watching other guys do it, too," said Fraley, whose homer was his ninth this season. "I think every guy in that clubhouse would say the same thing. I feel blessed to be a part of a team like this."

Andrew Abbott — the first pitcher since the mound was moved to its current spot in 1893 to begin his career with three straight scoreless starts of more than five innings — allowed the first run of his career when Brenton Doyle led off with a homer.

But the rookie left-hander was solid from there, striking out a career-high 10 in six innings and giving up three runs, all on solo homers. Abbott struck out the side in the sixth.

"I didn't feel bad. Guys are going to score off you," Abbott said. "It's bound to happen. The biggest thing for me was how do I respond when it does happen. There were three for me today. I tried to stay composed and tried to give my team five, six, maybe seven innings and we didn't tax the bullpen any more."

Abbott combined with Lucas Sims, Ian Gibaut and Buck Farmer to hold the Rockies scoreless after the fourth. Gibaut (8-1) pitched around a leadoff single in the eighth and Farmer worked the ninth for his second save in five tries. The Rockies struck out 15 times.

"I really liked our approach," Colorado manager Bud Black said. "We just couldn't get the barrel to the ball. Abbott's got a good arm and the bullpen and did a nice job."

Doyle drove Abbott's 0-1 pitch to the People with no chance to play in the NBA still enter the draft

BY TIM REYNOLDS
AP BASKETBALL WRITER

If you want to be in the NBA, it helps to be, among other things, excellent at the playing of basketball.

If you want to be in the NBA draft, basketball skills aren't required.

There is a group of 18 people who are officially "draft eligible" for Thursday's festivities at Barclays Center in New York, and they have one thing in common: They will not be getting drafted. The NBA has them on what it calls the B List — "unknown individuals," officially. All that is required is fill out the necessary paperwork to enter the draft, a process that has allowed some with no real basketball ability to apply.

It's gimmicky, sure, but the rules are clear: If someone meets the general criteria laid out by the NBA, then they can become "eligible" for the draft.

It's a phenomenon that's not new. It's gone on for nearly a half-century; some do it and generate attention, others have stayed quiet. It's gimmicky, sure, but the rules are clear: If someone meets the general criteria laid out by the NBA, then they can become "eligible" for the draft.

A law student from Florida named Jordan Haber is one of this year's 18 names; he's posted several videos to TikTok detailing how he got into this year's draft. He's said he will be at Barclays Center on Thursday night for the draft — with tickets from the arena's social media team, not an invite from the NBA.

WHO CAN ENTER DRAFT?

It's really quite simple, as laid out in Article X, Section 1 of the current Collective Bargaining Agreement (which is only in effect until July 1, but the rule on this isn't expected to change much).

A player has to be at least 19 during the calendar year in which the draft is being held, and at least one NBA season must have elapsed since the player graduated (or should have graduated) from high school. From there, all someone needs to do is express interest to the NBA at least two months before the draft, forgo the rest of their college eligibility if necessary, and fill out some paperwork.

There are other rules, especially relating to international players, but that's basically it.

LOOPHOLE IN THE SYSTEM?

No, it's not a loophole. It's part of a process that has existed for years. The B List is an avenue for the longest of long shots to see if they can make it. The first person known to apply was a player named Reinhard Schmuck, who played in nine games in one season at Division III's Baruch College. He tried to get into the NBA two years later and told The Washington Post in 1987 that he was doing so to raise awareness for Baruch's athletic programs.

"I'm really a nobody," the newspaper quoted Schmuck as saying. "I wanted to do it because there are so many kids who give up on their dreams."

HOW MANY HAVE DONE THIS?

There's no official count, but it's believed to be in the hundreds. Author Jeff Pearlman did it as a student at Delaware in 1993; in a piece he wrote a few years later for Sports Illustrated, Pearlman revealed that the NBA called to say "nobody here has heard of you."

In 2008, a student from Washington University in St. Louis named Zachary Feinstein took a shot at getting into the NBA and detailed the exploits on a web page.

He revealed this on that page: "Also, I do not play basketball," he said.

But he got into the draft anyway.

Nuggets trade into the 1st round

NBA Champions swap picks with the Pacers, AP source says

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DENVER — The NBA-champion Denver Nuggets traded into the first round of the draft by acquiring the 29th overall pick from the Indiana Pacers on Wednesday, a person with knowledge of the negotiations said.

As part of the deal, the Nuggets will also receive the 32nd pick from the Pacers in Thursday night's draft. Indiana receives the 40th pick from Denver along with a first-round selection in 2024, according to the person who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because the trade of picks hasn't been announced.

Denver is trying to sprinkle in an assortment of players around its nucleus of Nikola Jokic, Jamal Murray, Michael Porter Jr. and Aaron Gordon. Denver struck gold with Christian Braun when the team took the high-energy player out of Kansas last summer at No. 21. Braun turned in valuable minutes off the bench during the Nuggets' run to the franchise's first championship.

They also have a 20-year-old shooting guard in Peyton Watson who could get more minutes next season. He was acquired in a draft-night deal with Oklahoma City last June.

Florida has spot in the CWS finals

Position secured with 3-2 win over TCU

BY ERIC OLSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

One-run games never get old as long as you're winning — and Florida is doing plenty of that right now.

Florida reached the College World Series finals with a 3-2 victory over TCU on Wednesday, making the Gators the fourth team in history to win their bracket with three straight one-run wins.

"It's not easy to get to this point. It's just not," coach Kevin O'Sullivan said. "I know I overstate it and say it over and over, but we just played three one-run games and they're all nail-biters down to the end."

Cade Kurland, who had struggled at the plate in the CWS, reached on an infield single to drive in the tie-breaking run in the ninth. Michael Robertson, who scored the winning run as a pinch runner and stayed in the game to play center field, ran down Brayden Taylor's deep fly to make a dazzling catch at the wall to end the game.

"There's a lot of things that have to go right," O'Sullivan said.

Florida joined Eastern Michigan in 1976, South Carolina in 1977 and Texas in 2002 as the only teams in the 76-year history of the CWS to win their first three games by a single run.

The Gators' run started Friday with a walk-off 6-5 win over Virginia after they erased a two-run deficit in the ninth. Then on Sunday, they survived Oral Roberts' inside-the-park home run, O'Sullivan's mound-visit rules violation that forced their closer out of the game and anxious moments in the last two innings to win 5-4.

The Gators have won eight in a row since facing elimination in the regional they hosted. They're hot at the right time, and TCU's Taylor could see it Wednesday.

"Florida is going to be the team to win this thing," he said.

The Gators (53-15) will play either No. 1 national seed Wake Forest or LSU in the best-of-three championship series starting Saturday. LSU forced a second bracket final with a 5-2 win over Wake Forest on Wednesday. The teams meet again Thursday.

Florida is in the finals for the fourth time, and first since it won the national championship in 2017.

TCU (44-24) staved off elimination twice to get to Wednesday's game, and it finished the season with wins in 21 of 25 games.

"Obviously ran up against a great Florida team and just came up one run short," Horned Frogs coach Kirk Saarloos said. "But like I told them, just the story and the journey that they took us on this year will never be forgotten. I think it completely changes our program in terms of what they did from the middle part of the season until now. It just stinks that it's over."

Florida led 2-1 after the first inning, and neither team scored again until TCU tied it in the bottom of the eighth when Tre Richardson singled and came home on Anthony Silva's deep fly to left-center that bounced over the fence for a ground-rule double.

Tyler Shelnut doubled off the right-center wall leading off the Florida ninth against Ben Abeldt. Garrett Wright relieved, and pinch hitter Dale Thomas popped out trying to bunt before Colby Halter's deep flyout allowed Robertson to take third.

Robertson scored when Kurland's grounder to short pulled Silva to his right. Silva bounced a throw to first that was far too late to get Kurland, who had been 1 for 14 in the CWS.

"A lot of times in baseball things may not go your way, but I think baseball always has a way to come back around," Kurland said. "It's really important to stay in the moment for when you do get the opportunity. He got me 0-2 quick, and I just knew he wasn't going to get me out. I wasn't going to go down."

Florida two-way star Jac Caglianone was shaky over 4 1/3 innings in his first start since June 2. He had walked three, hit three batters and gave up three hits when he left.

Josh Rivera, the Gators' shortstop, hit a two-run homer in the first inning and made a perfect relay throw home to prevent TCU from scoring the tying run in the fourth.

TCU freshman Kole Klecker, starting on four days' rest for the first time, allowed two runs on six hits in five innings.

LSU tops No. 1 Wake Forest to set up rematch

BY ERIC OLSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

OMAHA, Neb. — LSU staved off elimination from the College World Series for a second time. And now the Tigers are right where they expected to be all along.

Cade Beloso hit a go-ahead three-run homer, freshman Griffin Herring pitched 4 2/3 innings of shutout relief in his longest outing and LSU forced a second bracket final with a 5-2 victory over No. 1 national seed Wake Forest on Wednesday night.

The winner of the rematch Thursday night will advance to play Florida in the best-of-three championship series that starts Saturday. The Gators clinched a spot with a 3-2 win over TCU.

"We expect to be playing important baseball in June," Tigers coach Jay Johnson said. "We play every game like we're playing important baseball in June. Like, the Tuesday on March 22nd against McNeese is a playoff game to us. The thought process behind that is if you do that all year long, then you can just stay in character when you get to the postseason."

Wake Forest (54-11) will look to bounce back from its first loss in its eight NCAA Tournament games. The Demon Deacons, who have not lost consecutive games this season, are trying to reach the championship round in their first CWS appearance since the 1955 team won the national title.

"We'll come out ready to play tomorrow like we've done all year," Wake Forest coach Tom Walter said. "We've responded to adversity all year. Tomorrow will be no different."

LSU hopes to set up a rematch of the 2017 finals, which Florida won.

"It's the same game we've been playing since February," Beloso said. "We're going to go out there, have fun, we're going to compete to the best of our abilities and let the rest take care of itself. Everybody knows the scenario. But you don't have to put any more pressure on yourself."

The coaches didn't announce starting pitchers, but aces Paul Skenes of LSU and Rhett Lowder of Wake Forest were not ruled out.

The Deacons scored 75 runs and hit 19 homers in their first five NCAA Tournament games, all played at home. They have just eight runs — their fewest over three games since April 2021 — and one homer at Charles Schwab Field, where the wind has blown in for three days. They're batting .198 here, and leading hitter Nick Kurtz is 0 for 9 and Justin Johnson is 0 for 12.

"We play in a pretty small ballpark and the balls that usually go out there aren't going out here," Pierce Bennett said. "We just need to adjust on keeping hard and low line drives. It's hard to do. Hitting's hard. You can't really intentionally do that all the time. But just focusing in, zeroing in on just hitting line drives, finding the holes."

The Tigers erased a 2-0 deficit in the third inning when Dylan Crews scored on a wild pitch to tie it and Beloso launched Seth Keener's 2-0 offering into the right-field bullpen. As Beloso approached the plate, he pulled his helmet off, chest-bumped Gavin Dugas and slapped Tre' Morgan's arm — and then all three did cross-arm flexes in front of their celebrating dugout.

It was only the fourth homer surrendered by Keener in 69 innings this season.

Herring, who hadn't pitched since June 5 and had never gone more than three innings, steadied the Tigers after starter Javen Coleman and Blake Money combined to get just five outs.

The left-hander entered with LSU down two runs and held one of the country's top offenses scoreless.

"Pure adrenaline," Herring said. "This place is awesome. I think I kind of was able to feed off the adrenaline instead of letting it get to me, kind of like a steroid shot. Pretty cool."

Johnson drew laughs when he interjected: "We'll make sure adrenaline is not on the NCAA banned substance list."

Herring allowed three hits, walked one and struck out six. He left with runners at the corners and one out in the sixth.

Gavin Guidry came on and struck out national home run co-leader Brock Wilken and Justin Johnson to end the threat. The Deacons got two runners on in the eighth before Riley Cooper, who shut out Tennessee over the last three innings Tuesday, got Tommy Hawke to line out.

Cooper, who earned his second save in as many nights and third of the season, worked around a leadoff walk in the ninth to strike out Nick Kurtz and Wilken and got Johnson to ground out to end the game and set up the winner-take-all bracket final.

"It's just another game," Bennett said. "Bottom line, we've been doing it all year. Haven't lost a series all year. Knock on wood on that one."

KUNKEL

"She was motivated from the beginning. We were not expecting the indoor championship," Sanford said. "So when that got thrown out there and the possibility of being in the 11:40 range, we knew where she could end up. She did a great job those first few months when I was coaching basketball, coming out here and working hard and communicating. And then when I did get out here, she was ahead of where I expected and then she just kept going."

Kunkel didn't specialize in the 3200 — she also spent time at both 800- and 1600-meters while also running the 3200-meter relay and set school records in both the 800 and 1600 — but it was the 3200 that was her focus from the beginning of the season.

Eventually her 3200 times crept to the top of the state standings and by the time she won the regional in 11:36.21, she was the runner to beat in Lexington.

"After indoor state, I knew I had a good shot of getting a PR on the 2 mile this year because I hadn't broken 12 before. And then at the first meet, I opened up in a 12:10, then broke 11 and haven't went back out of the 11s since," Kunkel said. "I stopped running (the 800) for regionals and state so that I would have more energy."

The move worked. After placing third in the 1600 at state in 5:21.92 — five seconds off the winner — she turned her attention to the 3200 and the eventual state title.

"She's very stubborn and she likes to set the pace. And then anyone who really wants to race her has to follow her lead. It's not a 'I'm gonna hold back and kick' sort of thing," Sanford said with a laugh. "She's goes out, she gets her times, that's what we always talked about in practice."

Kunkel's high school career is over but her running career is not. She will attend Western Kentucky University this fall and will compete in both cross country and track & field and is looking forward to the challenge.

"I kind of knew I wanted to go there even if I ran or didn't run. So getting to run there was a really exciting opportunity," said Kunkel, who plans on majoring in biology with a minor in chemistry. "I just liked the campus and the atmosphere of Bowling Green in general."

Sanford, for one, believes that she will be a success at WKU.

"Definitely having competition in practice will help with that next progression. She's on top of the times more than I am but she says she has a good chance of getting that top seven," Sanford said. "I believe she has the work ethic and she will still go get it."

drive the U-40 Bucket List Racing and rookie Brent Hall will be in the cockpit of the U-440 Bucket List Racing.

The 2.5-mile race course in Guntersville promises some fast racing. Event organizers have increased the size of the turns considerably with the idea of making it the fastest course on the circuit.

"It'll be almost a circle from what I understand which should be fun," said Tate, who out-dueled Shane in an epic final at Guntersville in 2018. "Coming through those turns, we shouldn't have to let up at all which will make it incredibly fast."

This weekend's race will mark the first of a very short H1 Unlimited season. With the postponement of the San Diego race announced earlier this week, it means that there will be only four races on the schedule.

The Guntersville event will begin with testing on Lake Guntersville Friday afternoon then resume with qualifying attempts beginning at 9 a.m. EDT on Saturday. The first set of preliminary heats will take place at 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. on Saturday and then continue Sunday morning and afternoon. The race will wrap up with a winner-take-all final scheduled for 6:30 p.m. EDT on Sunday.

Tickets to the Guntersville hydroplane race are available at guntersvillelakehydrofest.com. For those who can't attend, the race also will be streamed live on the H1 Unlimited YouTube Channel. You can find the link at H1Unlimited.com.

Today's Puzzle Solved

Troubling encounters create social discomfort

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Readers: Like you, I'm often curious about what happens to the advice I offer once it leaves my desk, and so I've asked readers to send in "updates" to let all of us know how my advice was received, if it was followed, and how things turned out. To refresh all of our memories, I'm running the original Q&A, followed by the update.

Dear Amy: My husband and I have become friends with another couple and have gotten together with them several times, either at one another's homes or by going out. Each time, over the course of the evening, the wife begins trying to pick a fight with her husband. She speaks to him in a belittling manner, her voice dripping with sarcasm and points out what she sees as his shortcomings, and though he ignores her, she doesn't stop.

My husband thinks we should just continue to ignore her venting. I want to tell her either that we now charge for couple's therapy or that if she's going to continue in that vein, she'll have to go home (or we will, if we're out together).

— At a Loss for Words

At a Loss for Words: This social dynamic sounds like your own unfortunate staging of a living room production of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" so I'm going to refer to this couple as "Martha" and "George."

Martha is creating an uncomfortable situation for everyone at the table. Why would you ignore it? She's not shy about belittling her partner in public, so maybe you should be less shy about reacting honestly to it.

Because this is a pattern with a clear perpetrator, you should call her out. Before agreeing to see them again, one — or both — of you should tell Martha, "We enjoy spending time with both of you, but Martha, the way you speak to George when we're together makes us very uncomfortable. We are bewildered by it and feel bad for him."

Update, from "At a Loss for Words": Dear Amy, in your answer was one of your funniest lines ever (the "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" reference).

As with most problems, I think we know what we should do to solve them, but it is nice/good to get affirmation.

Your advice to sharpen my point (if a gentle rebuff didn't work), and your example of what to say was very helpful.

I also appreciate how your loyal readers give advice, too. You frequently tell letter writers that some things are none of their business.

I use this unsolicited advice often, saying to myself, "What would Amy say?" when I feel like being a buttinski.

Red flags fly over mismatched relationship

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Readers: Like you, I'm often curious about what happens to the advice I offer once it leaves my desk, and so I've asked readers to send in "updates" to let all of us know how my advice was received, if it was followed, and how things turned out. To refresh all of our memories, I'm running the original Q&A, followed by the update.

Dear Amy: I'm in my mid-20s. My boyfriend is in his late 20s.

We've been seeing each other for 10 months, and some things he does bother me. He's not very sensitive or romantic. I've told him multiple times that I want him to be more romantic, but he says it's just not how he is.

I know that he cares about me. He always checks in on me and calls me at least twice a day. Is this just a "take it, or leave it" situation?

— Sensitive, or Reasonable?

Sensitive or Reasonable?: How would you feel if your boyfriend told you multiple times that he wanted you to behave differently, and when you said, "That's just not the way I am," he responded that you-being-you is just not good enough?

At the 10-month mark, you would ideally be entering a great groove with each other, where you are recognizing and accepting one another's differences, without insisting that your partner change elementally to please you. At the same time, you would both endeavor to be "better" versions of yourself to be worthy of the relationship you're in.

Update from "Sensitive…": Dear Amy, reading your response and other responses online gave me enough courage a few weeks later to break up with him on the grounds that my needs were not being met/it was a bad match.

The breakup lasted about a week because he begged and begged for me to come back on the promise that he'd change.

We got back together, and things improved significantly — he tried harder to have more meaningful connections with me, and I picked up my own new hobby that filled up my time. We got into a wonderful groove. However, during the whole relationship, we would still fight fairly often. I always felt that deep down we were still just a bad match.

Red flags continued to be ignored and two years in, I moved into his place.

Eight months after I moved in, I found out that he cheated on me.

I packed up my bags and ended it for good after almost three years with him.

This was just a few months ago. I wish I'd held true to my own instincts the first time I broke up with him in 2020.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You may be accustomed to people being devoted to you and might be taken aback if someone is not as easily impressed. Try not to break off a connection just because you are not currently the center of attention.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Try to get mundane chores out of the way quickly so you can try something new or spend some time with exciting people. You may become attracted to riskier ventures or feel the urge to break from traditions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Remain committed to achieving your goals; you may be motivated to put more effort and energy into moneymaking tasks. Accepting last-minute offers or jumping on the bandwagon of the latest trend could be risky.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — A partner or loved one may play a key role in boosting your ambitions. You can be formidable if you present a united front but being a power couple may leave little time left over for romantic quality time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — You may be feeling restless for excitement. Your persistence and efforts can pay off in the long run but could be interrupted in the moment. When something catches your attention, you might want to jump into action.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — The same things that can feel boring might also be necessary. Try not to let a misunderstanding throw you into disarray. An invitation may be politely declined if you feel the event will not be worth attending.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Extra obligations can sometimes take their toll. You may prefer to be alone or take a rest from looking at the bright side of things. A break from social activities until conditions improve might be just what you need.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — A trusted friend or romantic partner may challenge you to rethink your values or rearrange your plans. Someone could be flattered by your impressive networking efforts or from receiving a kindhearted invitation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — You may be given a list of thankless tasks that need to be done even if no one wants to do them, and if so, you'll need to step up. Remember your manners by extending thanks to everyone including family.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Remain aware of your surroundings. You may be intent on achieving your ambitions but inadvertently give someone the cold shoulder. Offer an apology if needed and plan some evening activities for togetherness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — You sometimes need to adjust in order to keep pace with other people in your life. Someone in your home or family may want to be a trendsetter or live life in the fast lane. Try to keep your tone lighthearted.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — You might be feeling left out or let down by someone's doubts or hesitancy. Stand up and be counted. If someone is unaware of how skilled you are, it may be time to show them your expertise and prove your worth.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Jumping through hoops may not be needed to attract someone's undivided attention as your ability to mesmerize someone can come to a head. Show through your actions that you can be safe and trustworthy.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Voicing enthusiasm for something new or different may be misinterpreted as a decision to break a commitment. Take care to word things clearly to avoid misunderstandings. Walking a balance beam might be needed now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You may get caught up in a cleanup mission if you are so intent on disposing of things that might no longer be of use that you accidentally go to extremes. Be careful to check items twice before getting rid of anything.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — New romances or business commitments can have a domino effect on other parts of your life. Take pride in having the best of everything. Quality choices could outlive passing fancies and popular trends of the moment.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Restrain the urge to change your plans unnecessarily. Since you are logical, you may know how to calculate all possible repercussions of your actions. If in doubt, being yourself is always the best option.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — If a loved one is struggling with a dilemma, you may need to remain kind and understanding. A lack of clarity and contentedness can indicate that this might not be the right time for heart-to-heart discussions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Trust that your partner or friends are likely to do the right thing even if something doesn't quite seem to add up. Change may seem beneficial but there could be a downside. This is not a suitable time to make crucial decisions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Ask for feedback, you may be surprised to find that your companions can see things differently than you. An unconventional friend might drop by unexpectedly so be prepared to have a surprise addition to your plans.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Misunderstandings can sometimes be misleading. Try not to let imagined slights or little power struggles hurt you and drive a wedge between you and loved ones. Avoid making significant changes for the time being.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — There may be some serious issues weighing on your mind right now that could curtail your carefree fun. If you are looking for romance or companionship, you might end up finding it where you least expect it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — It may be difficult to know when to bluff and when to show your hand. If you mind your own business, the opinions of others might not matter at all. Hold off on making large purchases or investments on a whim.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Put doubts on the back burner until you learn more – you may not be thinking clearly or lack pertinent information. Review the list of key decisions on your blackboard and you will realize you must wait patiently for better timing.

Myers cut by Reds, who owe $4.19 million

CINCINNATI — Outfielder Wil Myers was cut by the Cincinnati Reds on Tuesday after the team activated him from the 10-day injured list.

Myers was designated for assignment and the Reds owe about $4.19 million from the $7.5 million, one-year contract he agreed to on Dec. 22. An 11-year veteran, the 32-year-old had been sidelined with a kidney stone and a left shoulder sprain. Myers hit .189 with three homers and 12 RBIs in 32 games before he was sidelined.

Cincinnati has seven days to trade him or place him on waivers. Because he has more than three years of service, Myers cannot be assigned outright to the minor leagues without his consent. Myers was the AL Rookie of the Year in 2013 with Tampa Bay and an All-Star in 2016 with San Diego.

"It was a tough decision," Reds manager David Bell said. "It speaks a lot to how our guys were playing. Wil has been injured and hasn't played a lot but has a long track record of being a really good player. He's become a big part of our team. He also dedicated himself to our team and what is going on here. We know he can come back and become the player he can be."

Sanders says he will undergo surgery for blood clots in legs

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Deion Sanders is scheduled to undergo surgery Friday for a blood clot in each leg, the University of Colorado football coach revealed in a video he posted.

The news of Coach Prime's impending procedure began to spread Thursday after Pat McAfee discussed what was called an emergency surgery on his podcast with longtime NFL defensive back Adam Jones.

Later in the day, Sanders posted a video to clarify: "It's time for the horse to talk. You heard from everybody else but you hadn't heard it from me."

Sanders explained in the video on YouTube that his doctor found a blood clot in both legs, including one in his left thigh. He's struggled with the left foot since having two toes amputated in 2021 due to blood clot issues while at Jackson State.

He said that two of his three remaining toes on that foot are what he referred to as "hammer toes," a condition where there's an atypical bend in the middle joint.

The procedure he's having Friday is to "try to get those clots so I can have proper blood flow to the leg so they can fix the toes. That's what's going on."

Last week, Sanders revealed he might lose his left foot as a result of circulation issues. Sanders allowed camera crews with "Thee Pregame Show" to film a meeting with his medical team at the University of Colorado, where he's preparing for his first season as head football coach.

Last week, Deion Sanders revealed he might lose his left foot as a result of circulation issues.

On Thursday, Sanders said: "There is no talk of amputation. There's no talk of any of that whatsoever."

Sanders laughed as he told a story about someone reaching out that they had a remedy to have all his toes grow back. He later thanked everyone for their support and well-wishes.

"I ain't going nowhere because we're comin'," Sanders said. "I'm just trying to get all this straight. So when I walk that sideline, and I walk my walk, because I'm gonna talk my talk, that I'm going to walk my walk. ... I appreciate you. I truly do."

The interest in Colorado football has soared since Sanders was hired last December to turn around the Buffaloes following a 1-11 season in 2022. Colorado sold out of its season-ticket allotment, marking the first time that's happened since 1996.

Cincinnati beats Toronto 3-0 for record 13th straight home win

CINCINNATI — Luciano Acosta scored for the fifth straight match at home, adding an assist, and FC Cincinnati rolled to a 3-0 victory over Toronto FC on Wednesday night, setting a league record with its 13th straight win at home in all competitions.

Cincinnati (13-1-4), which began the day with a five-point lead in the race for the Supporter's Shield, broke a record set by the 2002 San Jose Earthquakes. Cincinnati's record at home in its previous 62 home matches was 13-31-18.

Defender Santiago Arias scored his first career goal to give Cincinnati a 1-0 lead at halftime. Arias' goal was unassisted in the 35th minute. It was the 13th appearance and fifth start for the 31-year-old in his first MLS season.

Acosta added an insurance goal in the 54th minute, using a pass from Marco Angulo to score for a ninth time this season. Acosta is one away from tying Brandon Vazquez's club-record goal streak at home, set last season.

Acosta notched an assist in the 63rd minute on Dominique Badji's second netter of the campaign.

Roman Celentano totaled four saves in the clean sheet for Cincinnati. Celantano has eight shutouts this season, one behind Stefan Frei of the Seattle Sounders for the league lead.

Greg Ranjitsingh saved four shots in his first career appearance for Toronto (3-6-10). Ranjitsingh made eight appearances and three starts for Minnesota United in 2020. He had two starts in three appearances for Orlando City in 2019.

Cincinnati is 5-1-0 in its last six matches with Toronto after losing the first three in the series.

NOTICE OF DECISION

The Indiana Department of Environmental Management (IDEM) issued a decision regarding a Revocation of Partial Closure/Post-Closure Plan Approval for the Indiana-Kentucky Electric Corporation, West Boiler Slag Pond CCR surface impoundments (SW Program ID 39-005) at Clifty Creek Station, 1335 Clifty Hollow Road, Madison, 47250. This revocation is due to a change in Indiana's statutes.
Documents related to this facility is available online via IDEM's Virtual File Cabinet (VFC). Please go to: http://vfc.idem.in.gov/. You can search there for documents using a variety of criteria. A copy of the permit decision has also been mailed to the following library:
Madison-Jefferson County Public Library, 420 West Main Street, Madison, 47250
If you need assistance accessing the permit, please contact the Solid Waste Permits Section at (317) 234-9536 or toll free within Indiana at (800) 451-6027, or send an e-mail to OLQ@idem.IN.gov with the permit information in the subject line.

APPEAL PROCEDURES
If you wish to challenge this decision, IC 13-15-6-1 and IC 4-21.5-3-7 require that you file a Petition for Administrative Review. If you seek to have the effectiveness of the permit stayed during the Administrative Review, you must also file a Petition for Stay. The Petition(s) must be submitted to the Office of Environmental Adjudication (OEA) at the following address within 15 days of the date of newspaper publication of this Notice:
Office of Environmental Adjudication
Indiana Government Center North, Room N103
100 North Senate Avenue
Indianapolis, IN 46204
The Petition(s) must include facts demonstrating that you are either the applicant, a person aggrieved or adversely affected by the decision, or otherwise entitled to review by law. Identifying the permit, decision, or other order for which you seek review by permit number, name of the applicant, location, or date of this notice will expedite review of the petition. Additionally, IC 13-15-6-2 and 315 IAC 1-3-2 require that your Petition include:
1. the name, address, and telephone number of the person making the request;
2. the interest of the person making the request;
3. identification of any persons represented by the person making the request;
4. the reasons, with particularity, for the request;
5. the issues, with particularity, for the request;
6. identification of the terms and conditions which, in the judgment of the person making the request, would be appropriate in the case in question to satisfy the requirements of the law governing documents of the type granted or denied by the Commissioner's action; and
7. a copy of the pertinent portions of the permit, decision, or other order for which you seek review, at a minimum, the portion of the Commissioner's action that identifies the person to whom the action is directed and the identification number of the action.
Pursuant to IC 4-21.5-3-1(f), any document serving as a petition for review or review and stay must be filed with the OEA. Filing of such a document is complete on the earliest of the following dates:
1. the date on which the petition is delivered to the OEA;
2. the date of the postmark on the envelope containing the petition, if the petition is mailed to the OEA by United States mail; or
3. the date on which the petition is deposited with a private carrier, as shown by a receipt issued by the carrier, if the petition is sent to the OEA by private carrier.
In order to assist permit staff in tracking any appeals of the decision, please provide a copy of your petition to Juliana Fracetti , IDEM, Solid Waste Permits, IGCN 1154, 100 North Senate Ave., Indianapolis, IN 46204-2251.
The OEA will provide you with notice of any pre-hearing conferences, preliminary hearings, hearings, stays, or orders regarding this decision if you submit a written request to the OEA. If you do not provide a written request to the OEA, you will no longer be notified of any proceedings pertaining to this decision.
More information on the review process is available at the website for the Office of Environmental Adjudication at http://www.in.gov/oea.

Reeves back on UK campus, expected to return

BY TRAVIS BRANHAM
THE CATS' PAUSE

Kentucky shooting guard Antonio Reeves is back on Kentucky's campus and is expected to play for the Wildcats in 2023-24, a source told 247Sports.

Reeves' situation has been extremely fluid this offseason. First, Reeves entered the 2023 NBA Draft. But after withdrawing his name, his future at Kentucky immediately became uncertain as he enrolled in courses at Illinois State in order to graduate.

However, after weeks of uncertainty as to whether he will graduate and transfer — or, if he could even graduate from another school and transfer — he is back on Kentucky's campus and expected to be coming back for his final season of college basketball.

Reeves will make for Kentucky's 10th scholarship player and first upperclassmen for the 2023-24 roster.

The return of the fifth-year senior is a significant development for Kentucky, providing much needed experience for John Calipari and the Wildcats next season.

Behind Reeves, Kentucky is bringing in seven freshmen and returning two sophomores in Ugonna Onyenso and Adou Thiero.

Reeves averaged 14.4 points, 2.1 rebounds and 1.1 assists for the Wildcats in 2022-23.

right-field seats for his first homer since he hit two against Cincinnati on May 15 at Colorado. Abbott had begun his career with 17 2/3 scoreless innings.

Eiehuris Montero made it 2-0 when he connected in the second, his first homer since March 30. Randal Grichuk homered to left in the fourth, his first longball since May 7.

Cincinnati tied it in the fifth on Luke Maile's bases-loaded single and TJ Friedl's run-scoring single.

Colorado concluded a 10-day trip and gets Thursday off.

"It does come at a good time," Black said. "Our guys have been playing hard and played with a lot energy. I think it comes as breather for the guys — get off their feet and exhale."

ABRUPT ENDING

Cincinnati's three-run sixth ended when Jonathan India struck out looking and was called for batter's interference for the third out as Friedl tried to steal second.

TRAINER'S ROOM

Rockies: RHP Connor Seybold's scheduled start on Wednesday was pushed back due to a right triceps problem.

Reds: RHP Derek Law (right flexor mass strain) threw live batting practice on Wednesday and is expected to leave this weekend for a rehab assignment. ... RHP Casey Legumina (right shoulder pain) was placed on the 15-day injured list.

UP NEXT

Rockies: LHP Kyle Freeland (4-8, 4.48 ERA) is Friday's scheduled starter against the Los Angeles Angels in the opener of a nine-game homestand.
